Study Grant Awarded BYU Botany Prof.

A three year grant totaling $65,000 has been awarded Dr. H. J. Knight, assistant professor of botany for the study of spore germination in fruiting mushrooms.

If that amount, $9,219 was used for the first year's work, the grant was awarded to the National Institute of Health research on spore germination. Dr. McKnight will be the recipient of mushrooms as physical factors and "beta" chemicals. He will study physical factors as root extensions before experimenting with chemical factors, and will study the effects of different treatments, etc.

His sort of test tube garden said Dr. McKnight, "garding" of mushrooms instead of plants, was a bad idea. Knob knee resulted in a serious fall resulting in a broken leg. Miss Towne told him she was walking down the ramp to the Fieldhouse. Miss Towne, a junior from Boulder City, Nevada, was treated at McDonald Health Center and released.

Freshmen Voting Set For Today

"Freshmen — remember, It's Smart to Take Part," said Max Pitcher, elections chairman.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday for Primary voting for freshmen class. The election will be conducted by primary and final voting. The elections committee is conducting a contest between male and female members of the class, according to Pitcher.

Voting Places Set

Voting places will be located at the Smith Building, Living Center, Smith Building and Reference Center, McKay Building. Booths will be outside of the winter permanent building.

Winners of the primary contest will be announced in the Daily Universe. We'd be down at 8 a.m., and finalists will campaign on campus from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Following final voting, Friday night, the winner of the class of 1962 will be announced at a student-body dance Friday night.

Five Votes Needed

Freshmen will be allowed to vote for one candidate for president, vice president and secretary in both the primary and final elections.

The two candidates with the most votes for President, vice president and secretary and eight with the most votes for treasurer will run in the finals. Four seniors will represent the class.

All candidates must submit a complete financial report to the elections committee by 5 p.m. Friday.

Harvey Fletcher Gains National Science Award

Dr. Harvey Fletcher, internationally famous acoustics scientist and professor of physics at Brigham Young University, was awarded the John H. Potts Memorial award recently at the Auditory Research Society convention in New York City.

The award was given to Dr. Fletcher for "Outstanding Achievement in the Field of Acoustics." It was being conferred on him for his "leadership in the scientific investigation of the fundamental phenomena underlying the entire audio art, and in recognition of those personal qualities which have inspired a generation of his admirers to follow the paths he opened."

At the same banquet Dr. Leopold Stokowski was present and made an honorary member of the society.

Dr. Fletcher has patented 18 inventions which have been of incalculable value to the radio, television, motion picture industries and the telephone industry. They have assisted the deaf to hear and the mute to speak. He has written 32 major works for professional publications and books.

Dr. Fletcher's works have brought him numerous awards for scientific contributions, and former President Harry S. Truman honored him for his scientific contributions to the nation's defense.

Nepalese Student Explains Customs; Admires American Social Freedom

by Dave Blackstone

University Feature Writer

"Your Americans have five or six ways to greet people," Miss Siddhi Sherchan, a 21-year-old Nepalese exchange student, told the Associated Mens Students Freshmen Council, whose instructor is Daniel Witt, last Monday.

"We have only one way to say hello—namaste, continuing her comparison of her native way of life with American customs in the United States. Instead of the handshake we use here, she said, the people of Nepal greet each other by folding their hands in a prayer-like fashion before they speak.

Attired in her colorful Nepalese garments, she also discussed the customs of marriage, cast system, home living and youth activities.

Her ankle-length sari was made from a red and yellow fabric. Blending in a colorful manner with the rest of her native costume, her blouse was cut from black and white print silk, complete with wrist-length sleeves. Set off by a long train of dress in an attractive way, her designed gold jewelry was uniquely tooled.

"I am amazed about you Americans," she declared. "You have more social freedom." Miss Sherchan's opportunity to experience American life has been provided by International 4-H Foundation, which is represented in Nepal and 49 other foreign countries. In Utan, Mrs. Walter Montgomery of Heber is now her "mother."

"IN MY COUNTRY," she went on to say, "when a girl marries she is usually between 16 and 18."

The parents, as a practice, select her husband for her. The newly wedded wife moves in with the husband's family. Even though her parents die, she still remains with her family.

Talking further about marriage, she said, "I can only marry once. If my husband should die, I can never marry again, but if I am widowed, the next husband is allowed to marry."

"In my country, we become part of birth. The color mark on our foreheads shows the place where we are in," the Asian girl said.

"I am a farmer," she said. "I am a farmer—I am a girl," she said.

"People are very loyal to their country of Nepal. Because of this, they are willing to remain in the country where they are born into," she informed.

"Home life in my country," she brought out, "is much different than yours. Father, mother, brothers and sisters, sons and daughters, aunts, uncles, nieces, nieces and cousins all live in the same house. In our neighborhood, 29 people live in one dwelling."

"YOUNG GIRLS are not allowed to go out alone," she informed. "They are usually accompanied by other brothers or sisters as well as their parents."

In concluding her time with us, she expressed, "I hope I will be able to meet you again in my own country."

AWS Selects 'Coed of Week'

Betty Main, a senior majoring in bacteriology, has been selected as the Coed of the Month. Betty was selected for the honor on the basis of scholarship and service to her college.

BETTY HAS SERVED as vice-president of Beta Sigma, the bacteriology fraternity, and as treasurer of the Bacteriology Club. She is now a laboratory assistant in Bacteriology 511, and is doing individual research in special problems. Research is her special goal, and she hopes to do graduate work here at the Y.

In spite of her extra activities, Betty has maintained a high academic average, and her name appeared on last spring's honor roll.

COUGAR OF THE WEEK award is a new activity initiated by AWS and AMS to replace the former Coed of the Month program. Each month one college will select an outstanding member and an outstanding graduate to be honored for their achievements.

In addition, the AWS and AMS councils will choose two students from the entire student body to receive the award for special achievements or outstanding service given Brigham Young University.

Anybody knowing a student deserving of the award is invited to give the name to Pat Halgren or Lynn Anderson, or put it in the name to Pat Halgren or Lynn Anderson, or put it in the AWS and AMS offices or the Student Government's office. Organizations are especially asked to nominate someone from their groups.

Twelve Selected For Frosh AMS Council

Taking on four projects designed to give student leadership training will be the twelve newly named members of the Associated Mens Student council.

Named by the AMS presidency from some 90 applying to the new organization are Bill Tomson, Jon Davies, John Hayes, Jerry Hyde, Cont Jones, Phil Kuna, Larry Landward, Paul Nelson, Brent Ryting, Devon Sanderson, Gerald Stevens and Jay Stevens.

The new group will take as its project the compilation of a handbook for AMS leaders begun last year. Other will be to conduct a "Keep Off the Grass" campaign, plus a freshman scholarships and keeping the campus clean.

The boys will also serve with senior AMS council members in planning various activities.

The council itself will elect a president, vice president and secretary. Adviser is AMS vice president Ted Sandberg.

Botany Classes Visit Canyon

"And the desert shall rejoice / and blossoms as a rose"—Isaiah 35:1. Although this is not the immediate problem, Botany and Young University botany students and professors, at times they do branch out from their laboratories to study nature in her natural habitat.

Marion Canyon was the site of a recent field trip for 34 botany students and 4 professors. The group visited the Great Basin Experimental Station at Wah Wah, located in the high desert area. This station is outstanding in as much as it is one of the oldest experiment stations in the United States. Founded about 1912, this station has set a pattern for other observatories dealing in watershed lands.

New Mexico Takes Over Top Offense As Cougars Falter into Second Place

University of New Mexico replaced Brigham Young University as Skyline's leading offensive team with 221 yards rushing and a crushing victory over Utah State 34-14 last Saturday.

NEW MEXICO compiled 221 yards rushing and 67 yards by passing, to bring their total for four games to 1234 net yards gained.

BYU, who had lead the conference in rushing and total offense slipped into second place behind the Lobos. The Cats were only able to muster 159 yards rushing against College of Pacific and 14 yards by passing

BYU's total offense now stands at 1220 net yards gained.

Films of the BYU-COP gridiron game will be shown 4:15 p.m. Tuesday in 167 Mc-

Key Bldg.

Colorado State University hung on to the 1, 1 spot in the conference defensive ranks, in spite of their 36-6 drubbing at the hands of Air Force Academy. However, CSU has played one less game than the rest of the conference.

Utah maintained its leadership in the passing department as they gained 196 yards from the air in their weekend games with California. The Utes now have a total of 602 yards gained via the aerial route.

Lowell Marconi, yet to win their first game of the season, have lost the least number of yards through penalties. The Grizzlies have only been penalized 95 yards in four games. In addition to the statistics, Lobo Don Perkins increased his leadership as Skyline's leading ground gainer, as he ground out 110 yards for a four game total of 388 net yards gained.

CARDS VS. ALL-STARS

The St. Louis Cardinals, who already have beat the Houston Astros twice in the All-Star Monday, in the final game of the Hawaiian Island Series before departing for Japan.

Don't get the idea that BYU's 1958 team is a family affair even though there are two Dunn's, Smiths, Starling, Youngs and Browns. Only quarterbacks Wayne and Ron Starling are related. They're brothers.

CARDS VS. ALL-STARS

Over all, some thirteen states from New York to California, and the Islands of Hawaii are represented on this year's squad, with Utah supplying the majority.

Following the opener at Utah State the freshmen will play their first home game Oct. 31 with the University of Utah. One week later Montana State will invade Provo for an encounter with the frosh Devons.

Finally, winding up the season on Nov. 14, the frosh will travel to Salt Lake City for a second contest with the Utah Papoces.

Freshmen look bright this year if injuries or a shallow bench don't prove to be problems.

Gatos Sharpen Fangs For Gridiron Battles

by John Wright
Daily Universe Sports Writer

The freshmen football team which is preparing to open its season in two weeks against Utah State, has been grueling daily for those gridiron warriors.

Only 10 of the original 45 candidates have survived the cutting of the squad and pre-season injuries. This year's team, comparatively smaller than in other years, will be forced to make up through desire and fortitude, what it may be lacking in depth.

At every position there are some fine prospects, many bringing with them from high school, impressive records of football achievements.

To name a few there is Paul Allen, who is a high school All-American halfback from Pleasant Grove. Another Utah, and another high school All-American, is Lynn Stuart, a fullback from Payson.

The frosh line, which this year averages right around 200 pounds, boasts several highly rated players. Coming from Pearl City, Hawaii with high school laurels is Salanee Faatau, who should see a lot of action at tackle.

Calver Fackrell, from San Diego, Calif., a high school All-American guard, while Steve Bangerfield is an All-State center from Salt Lake City. Many others from different parts of the country have gained high
